

CHAPTER SIX

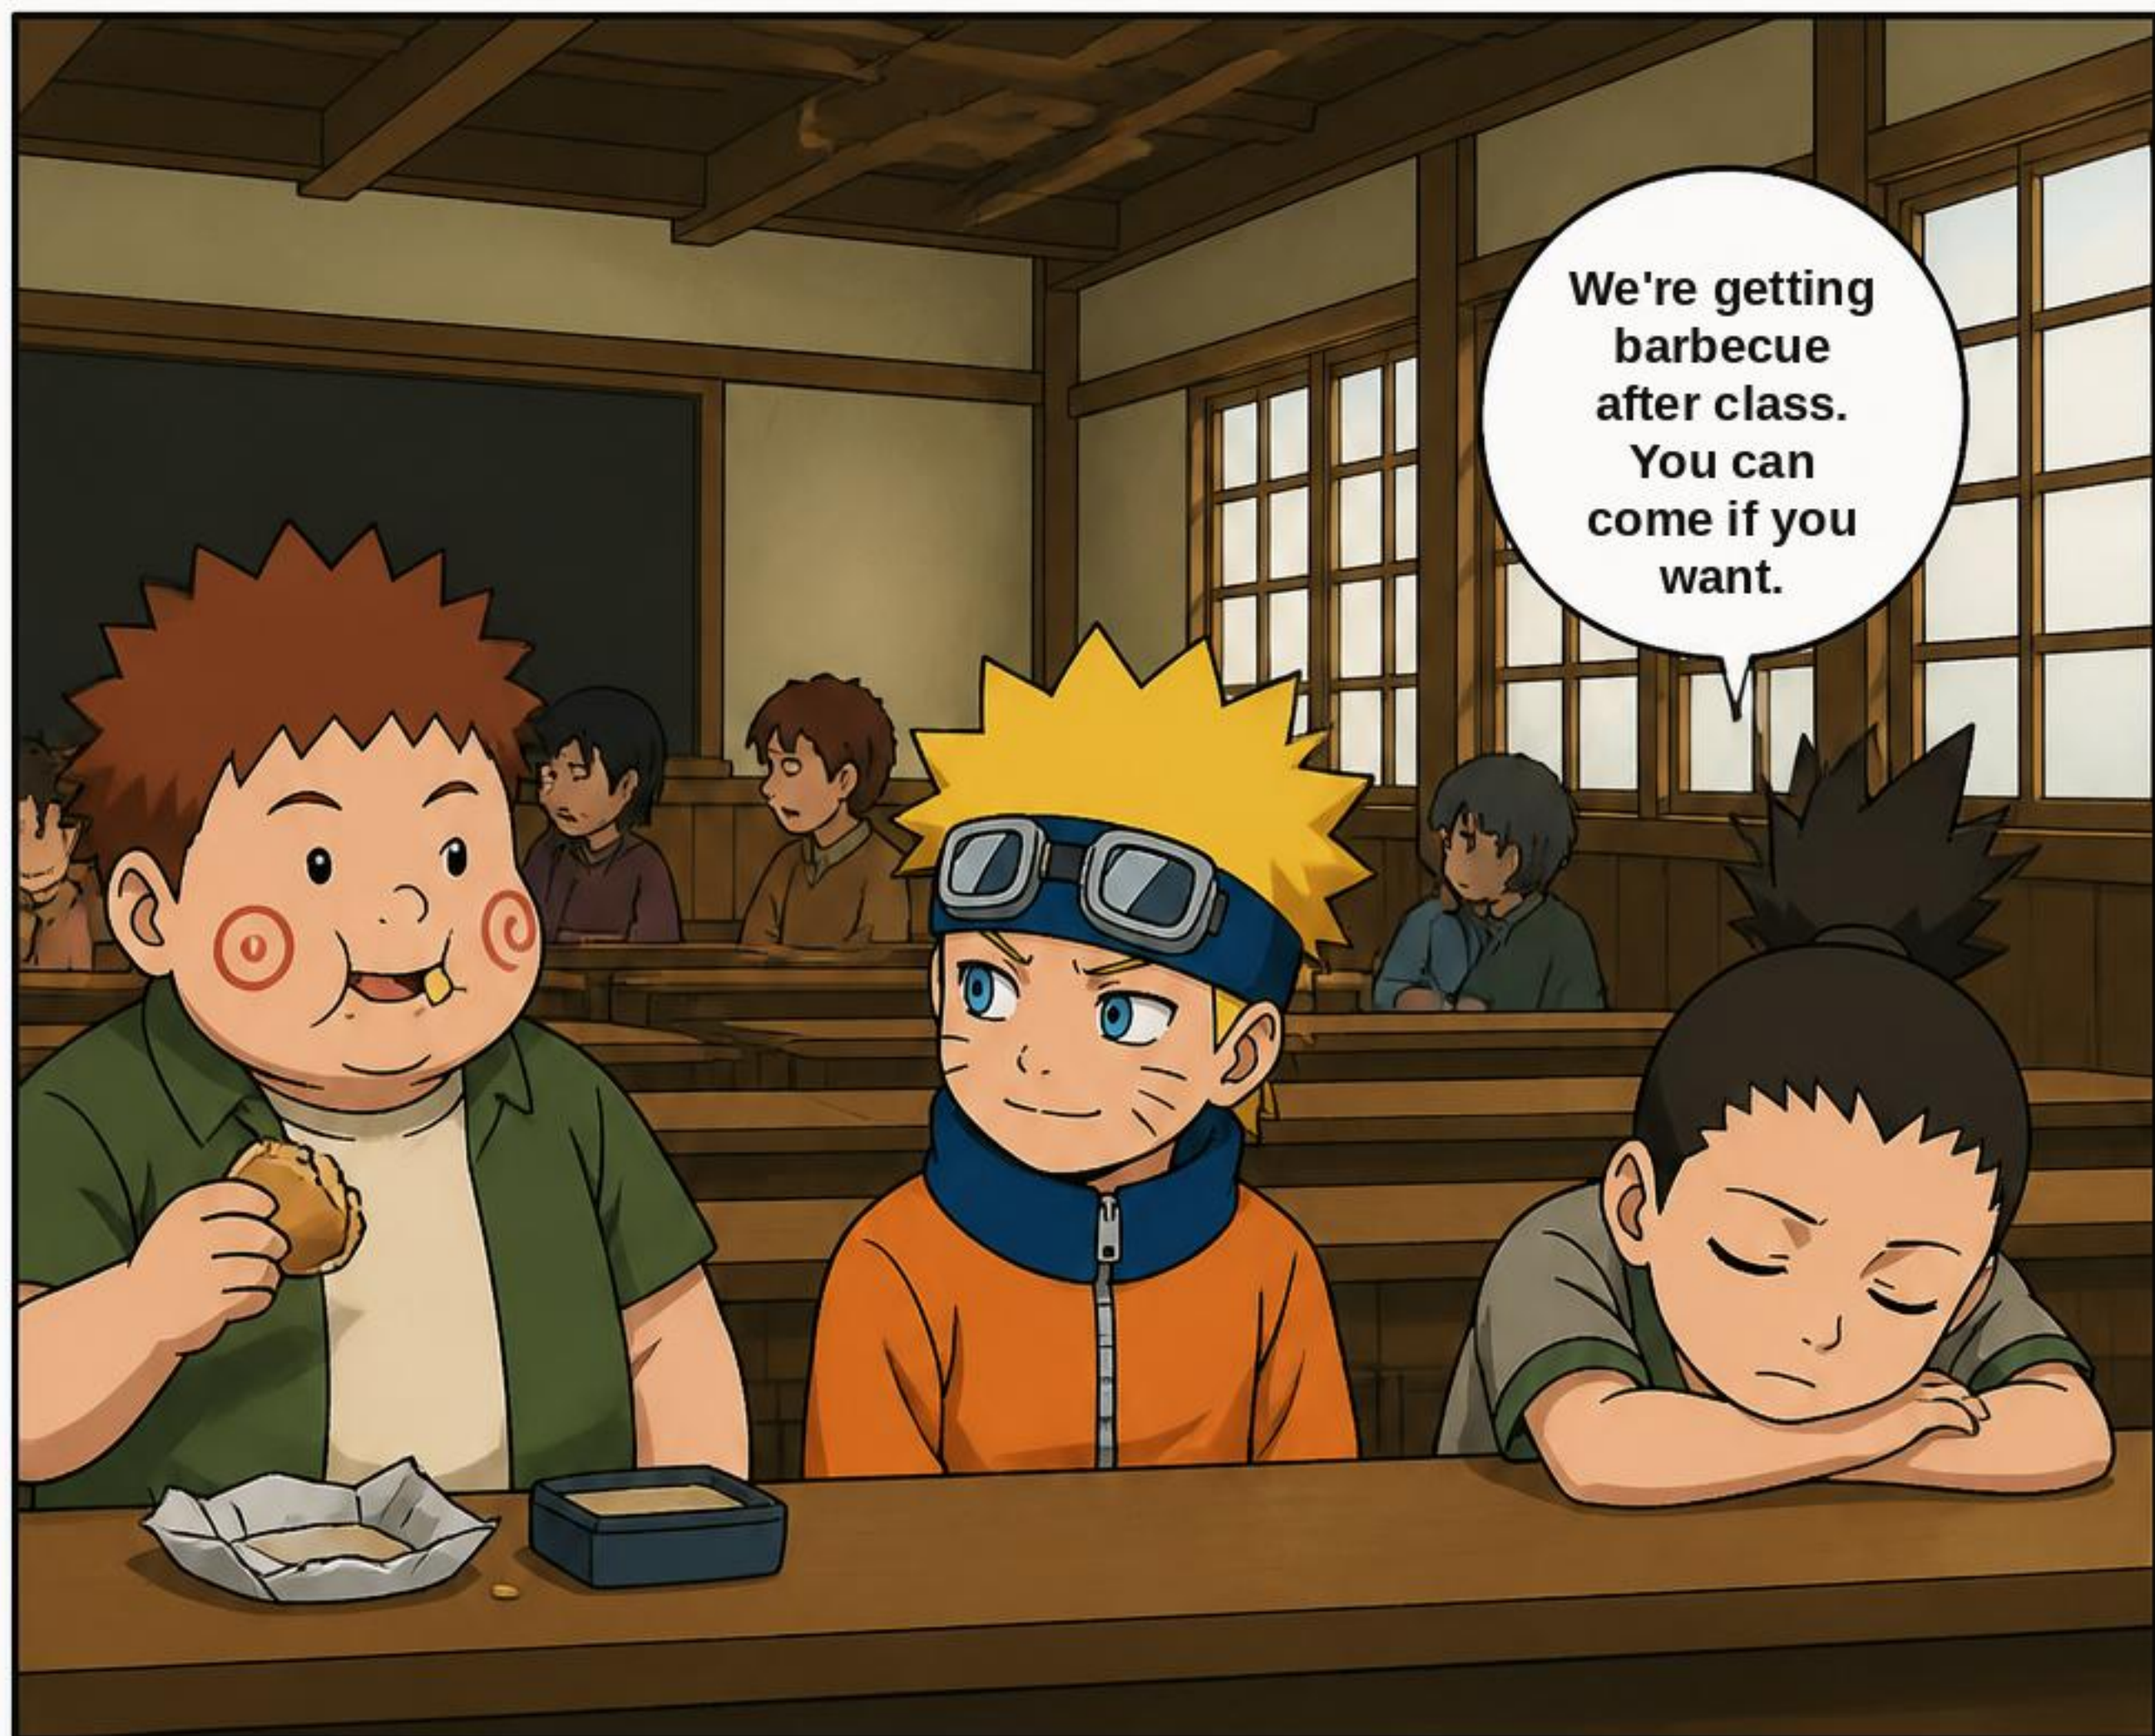

TRAITORS

UCHIHA NARUTO: THE SAGE . VOLUME ONE

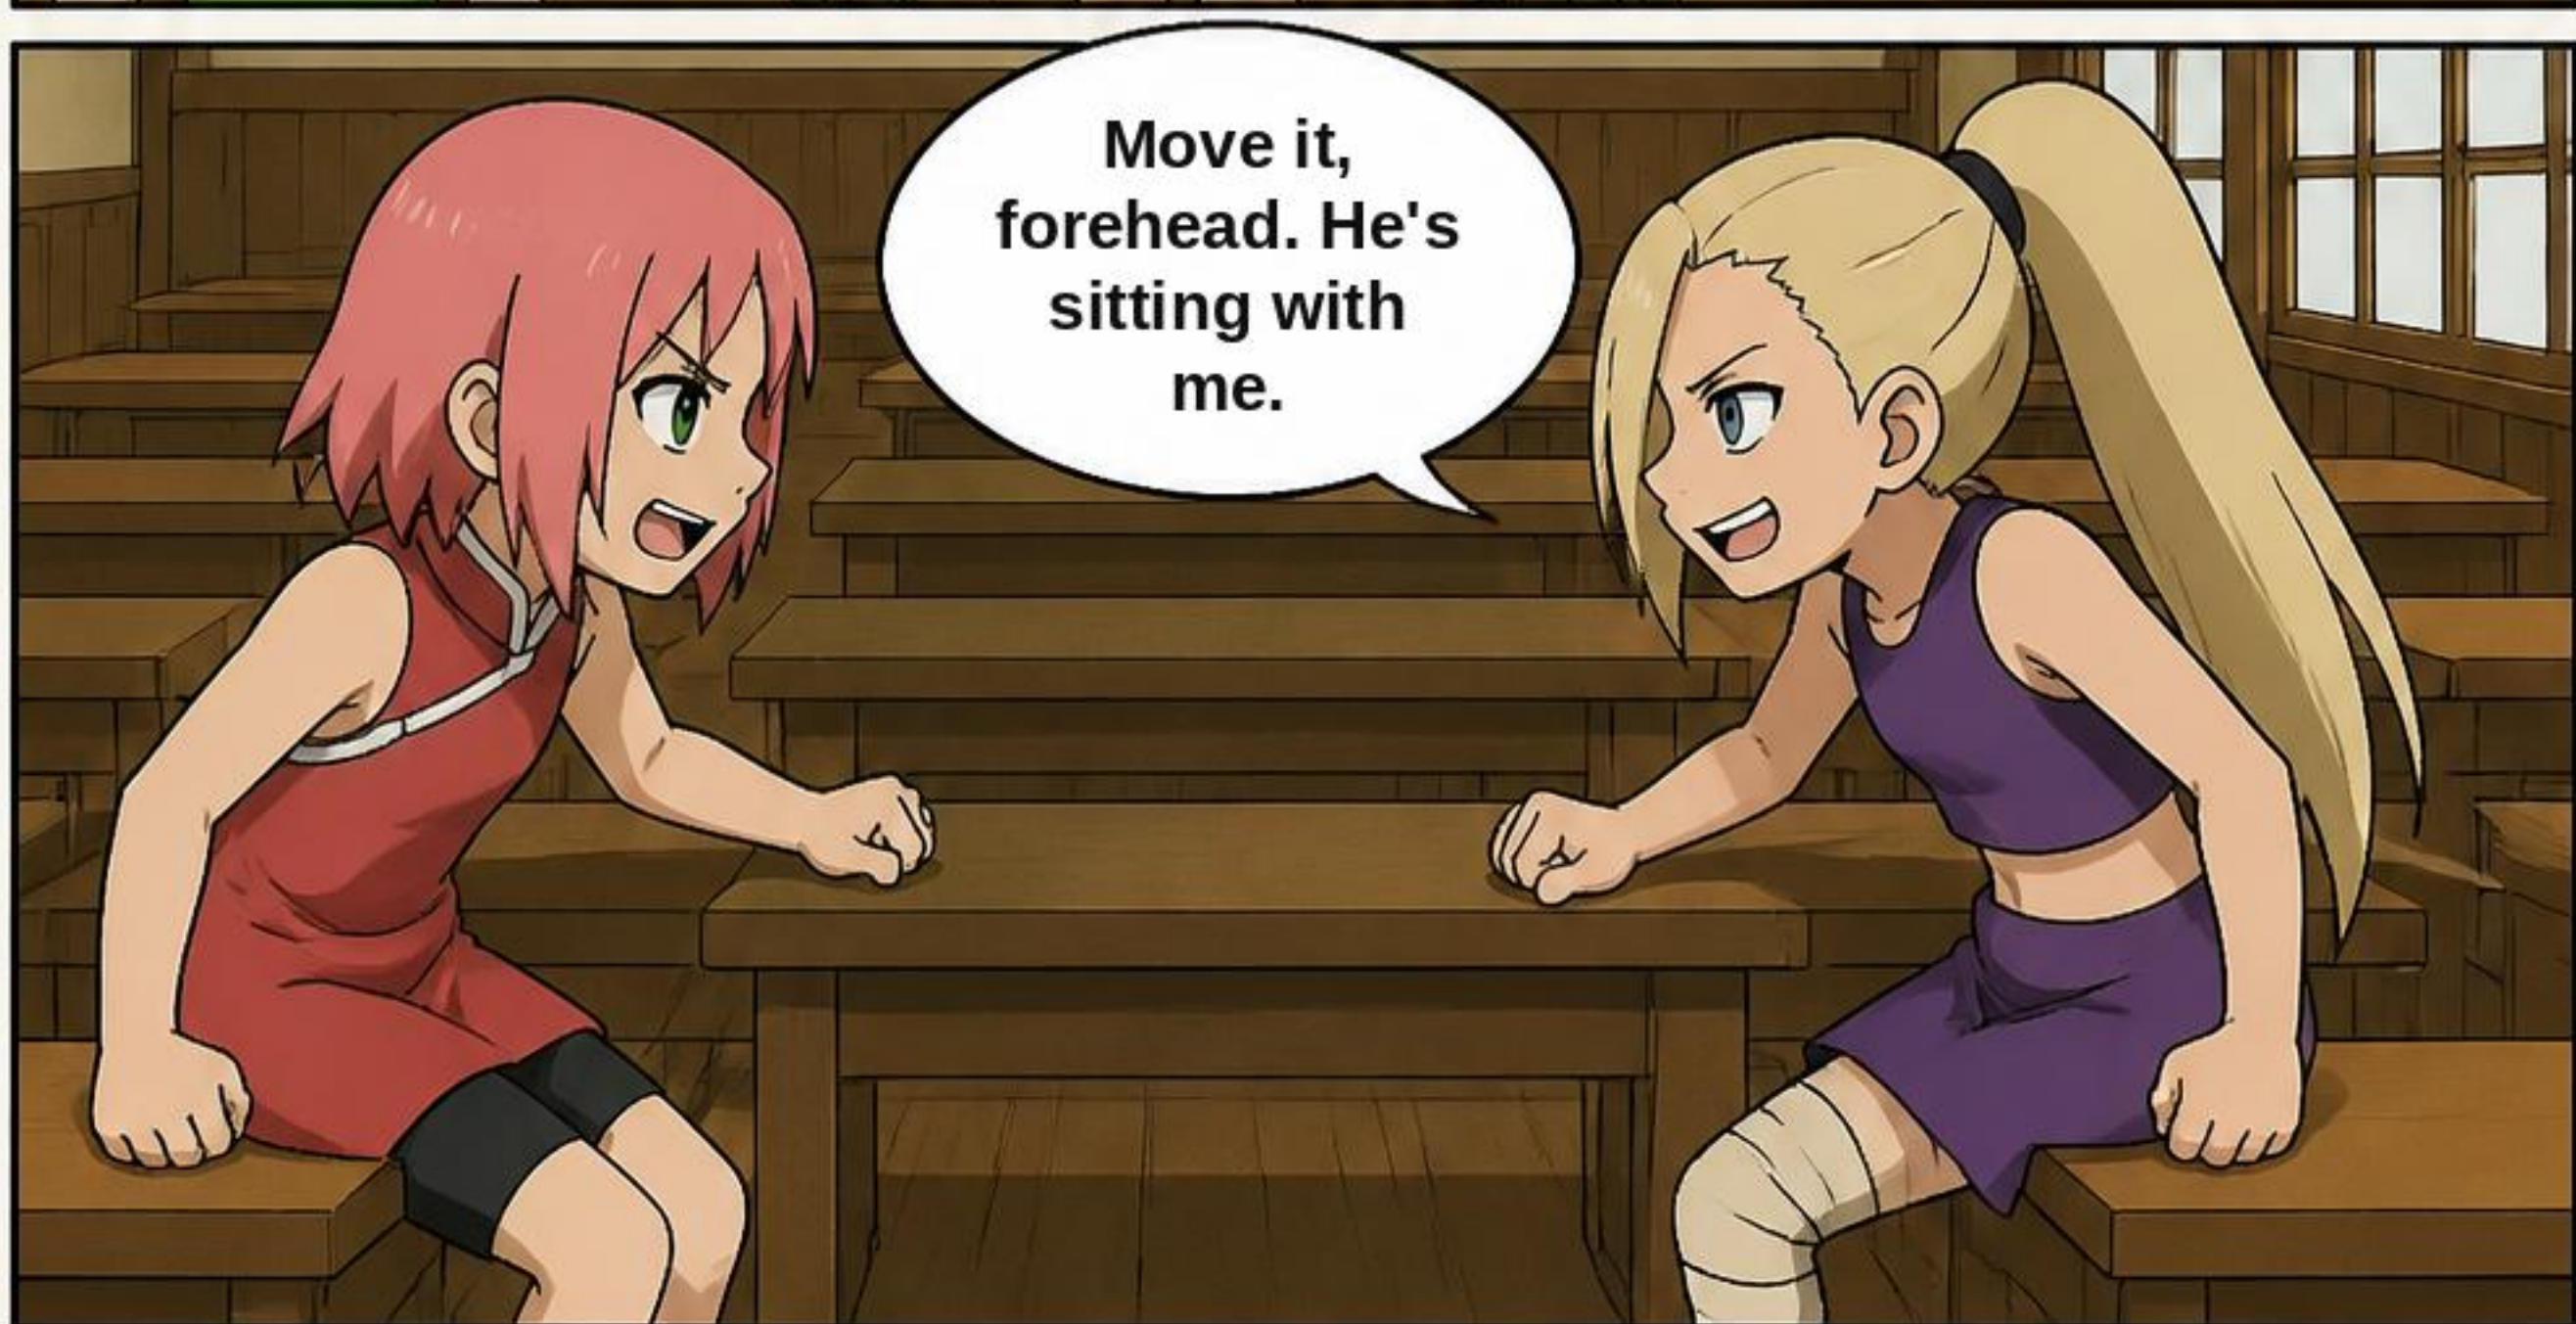

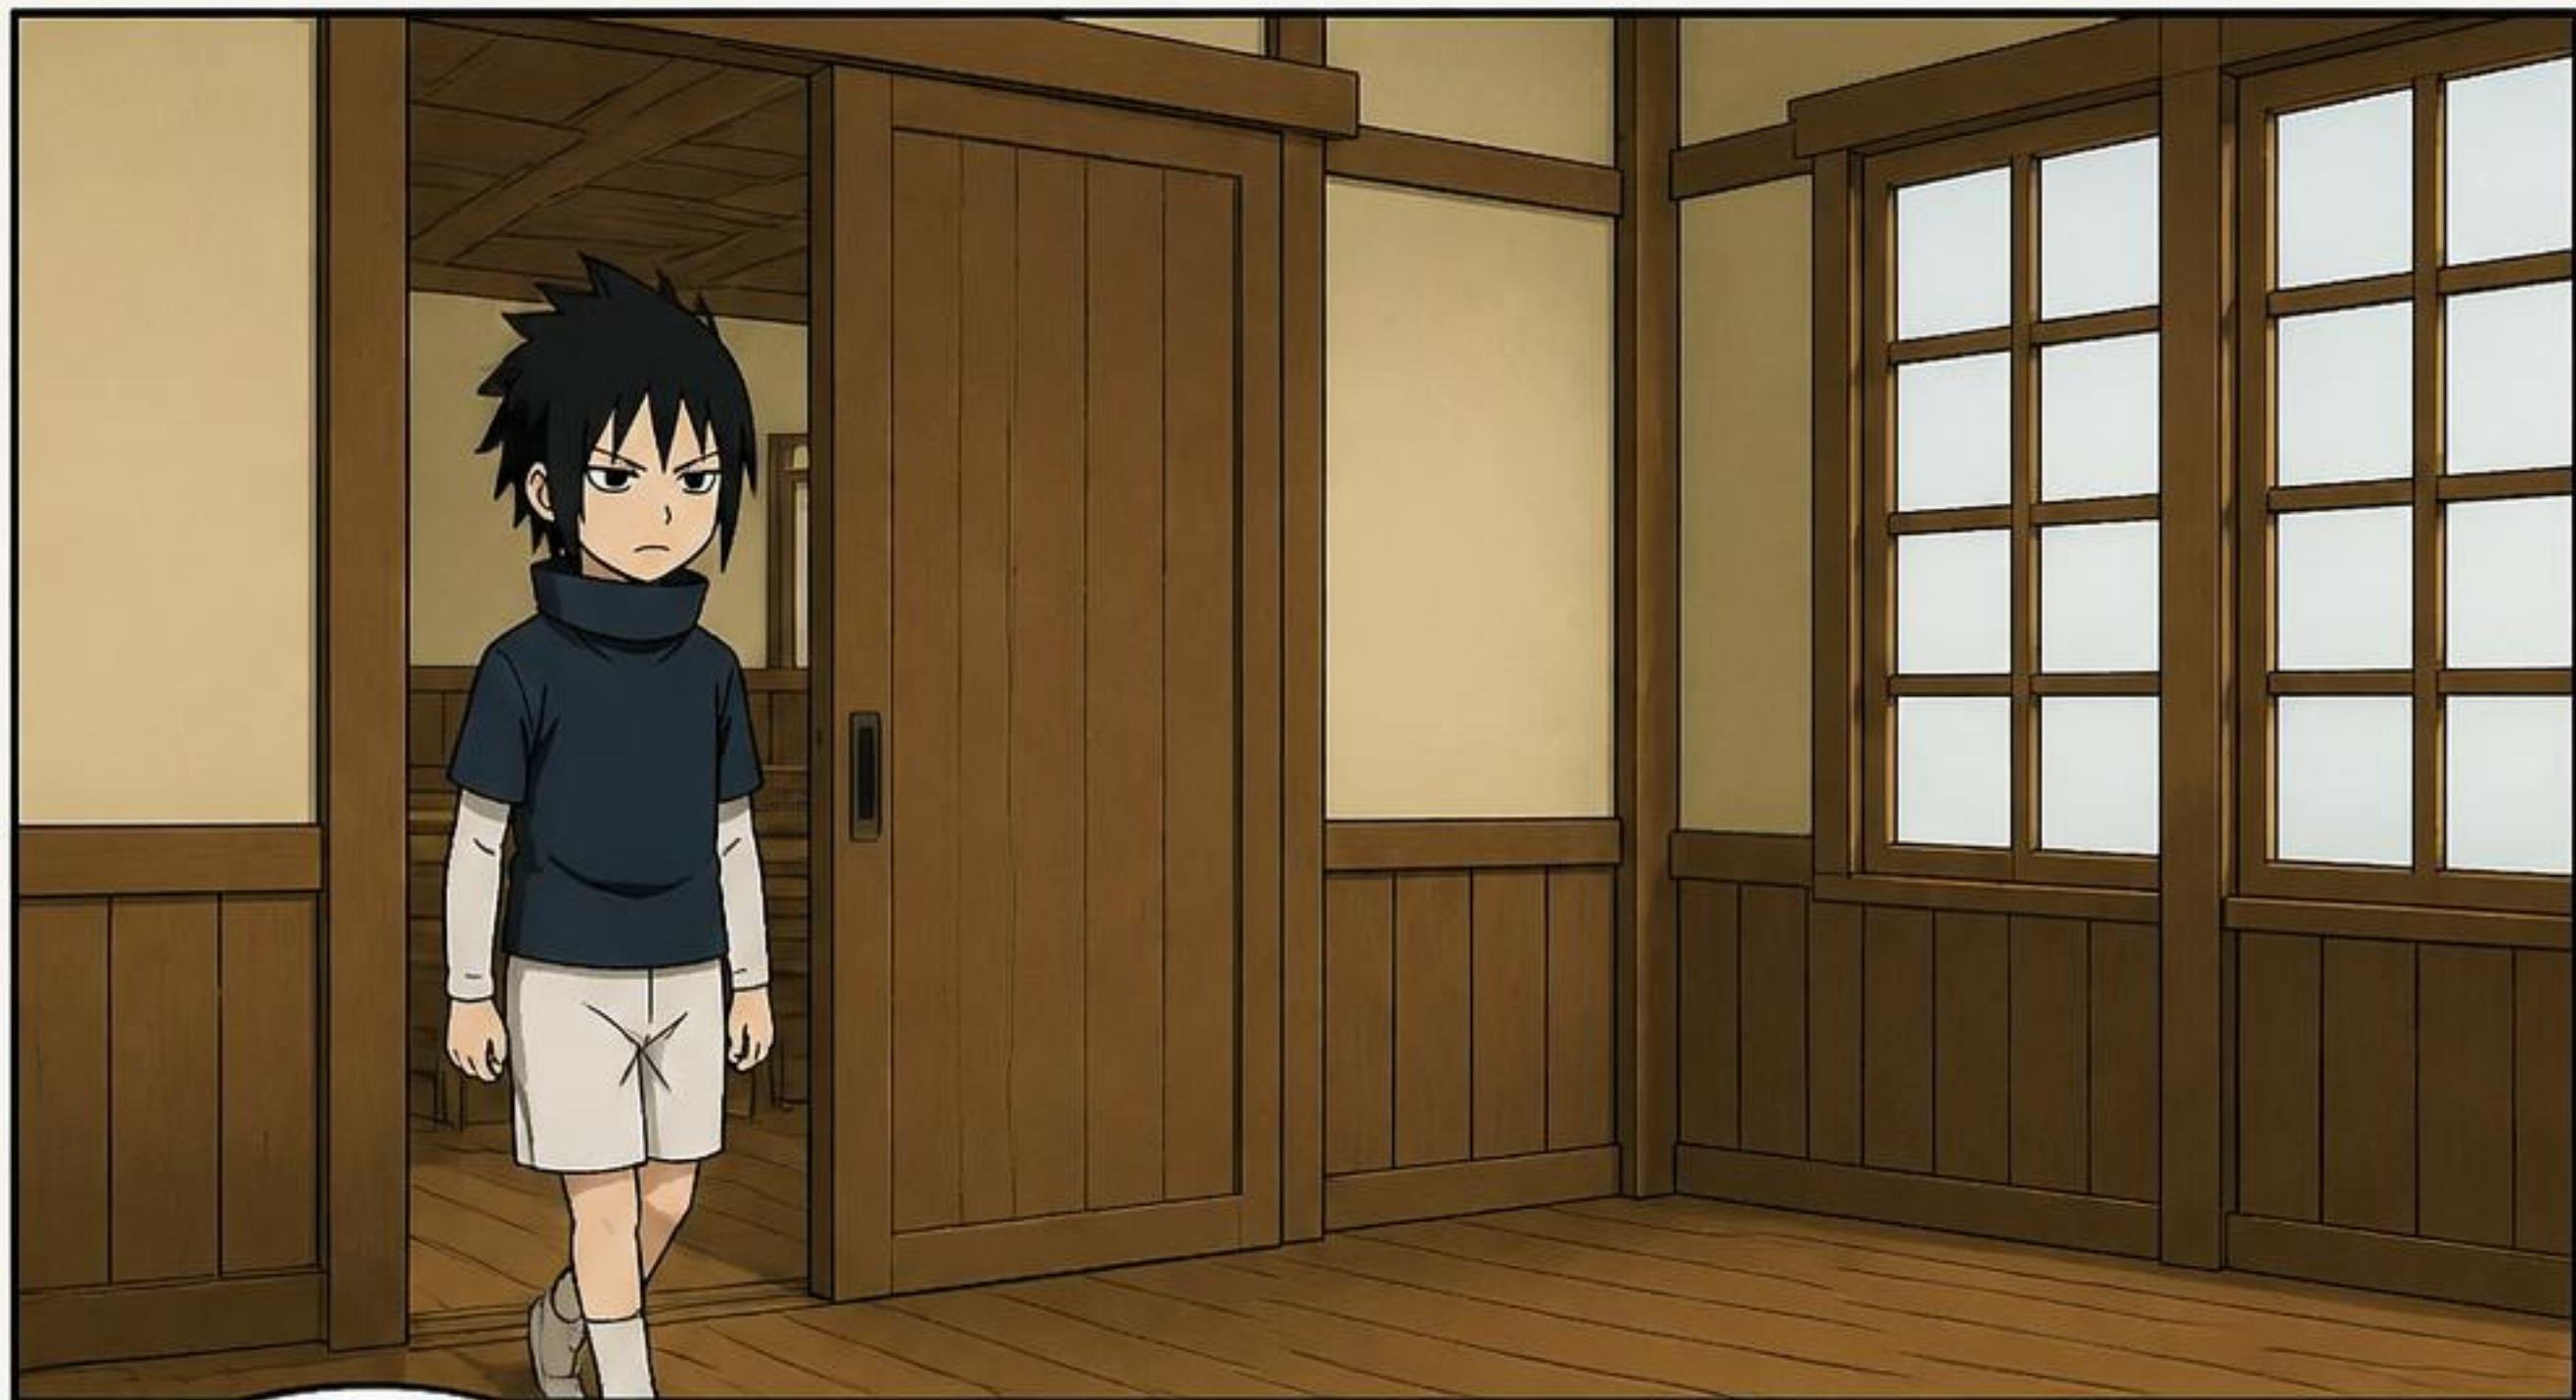

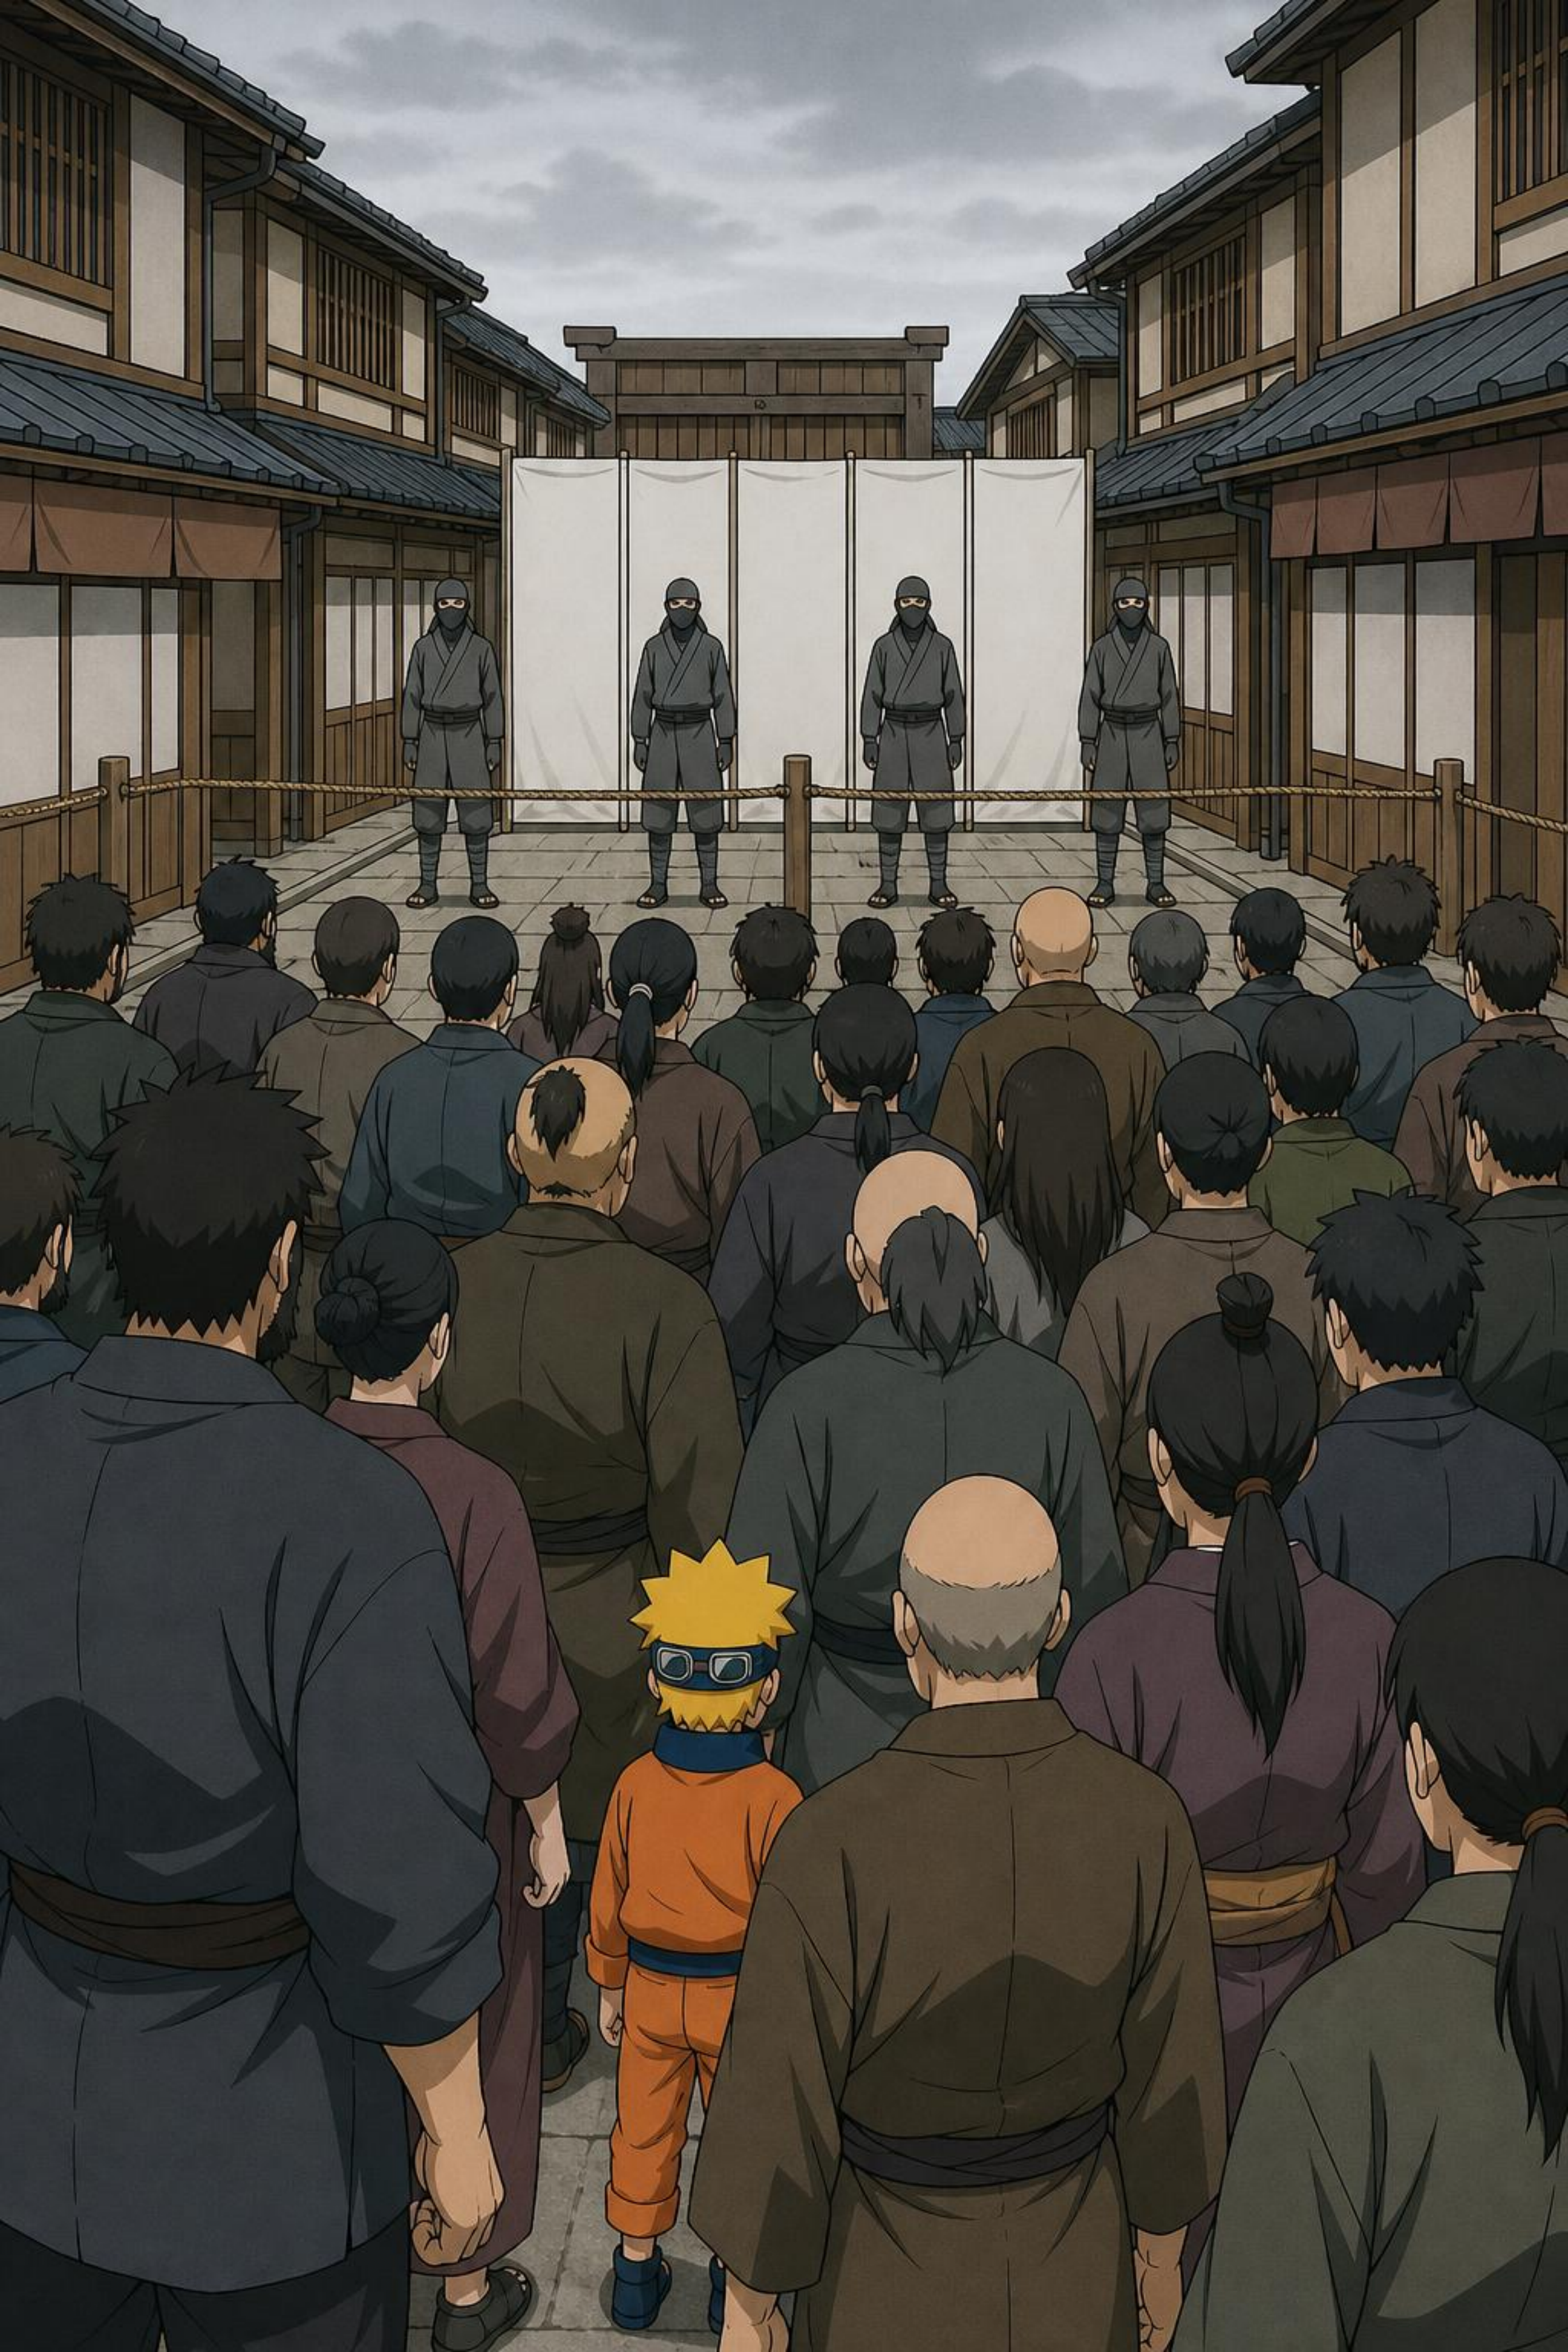

That girl keeps staring at me. Then she hides.

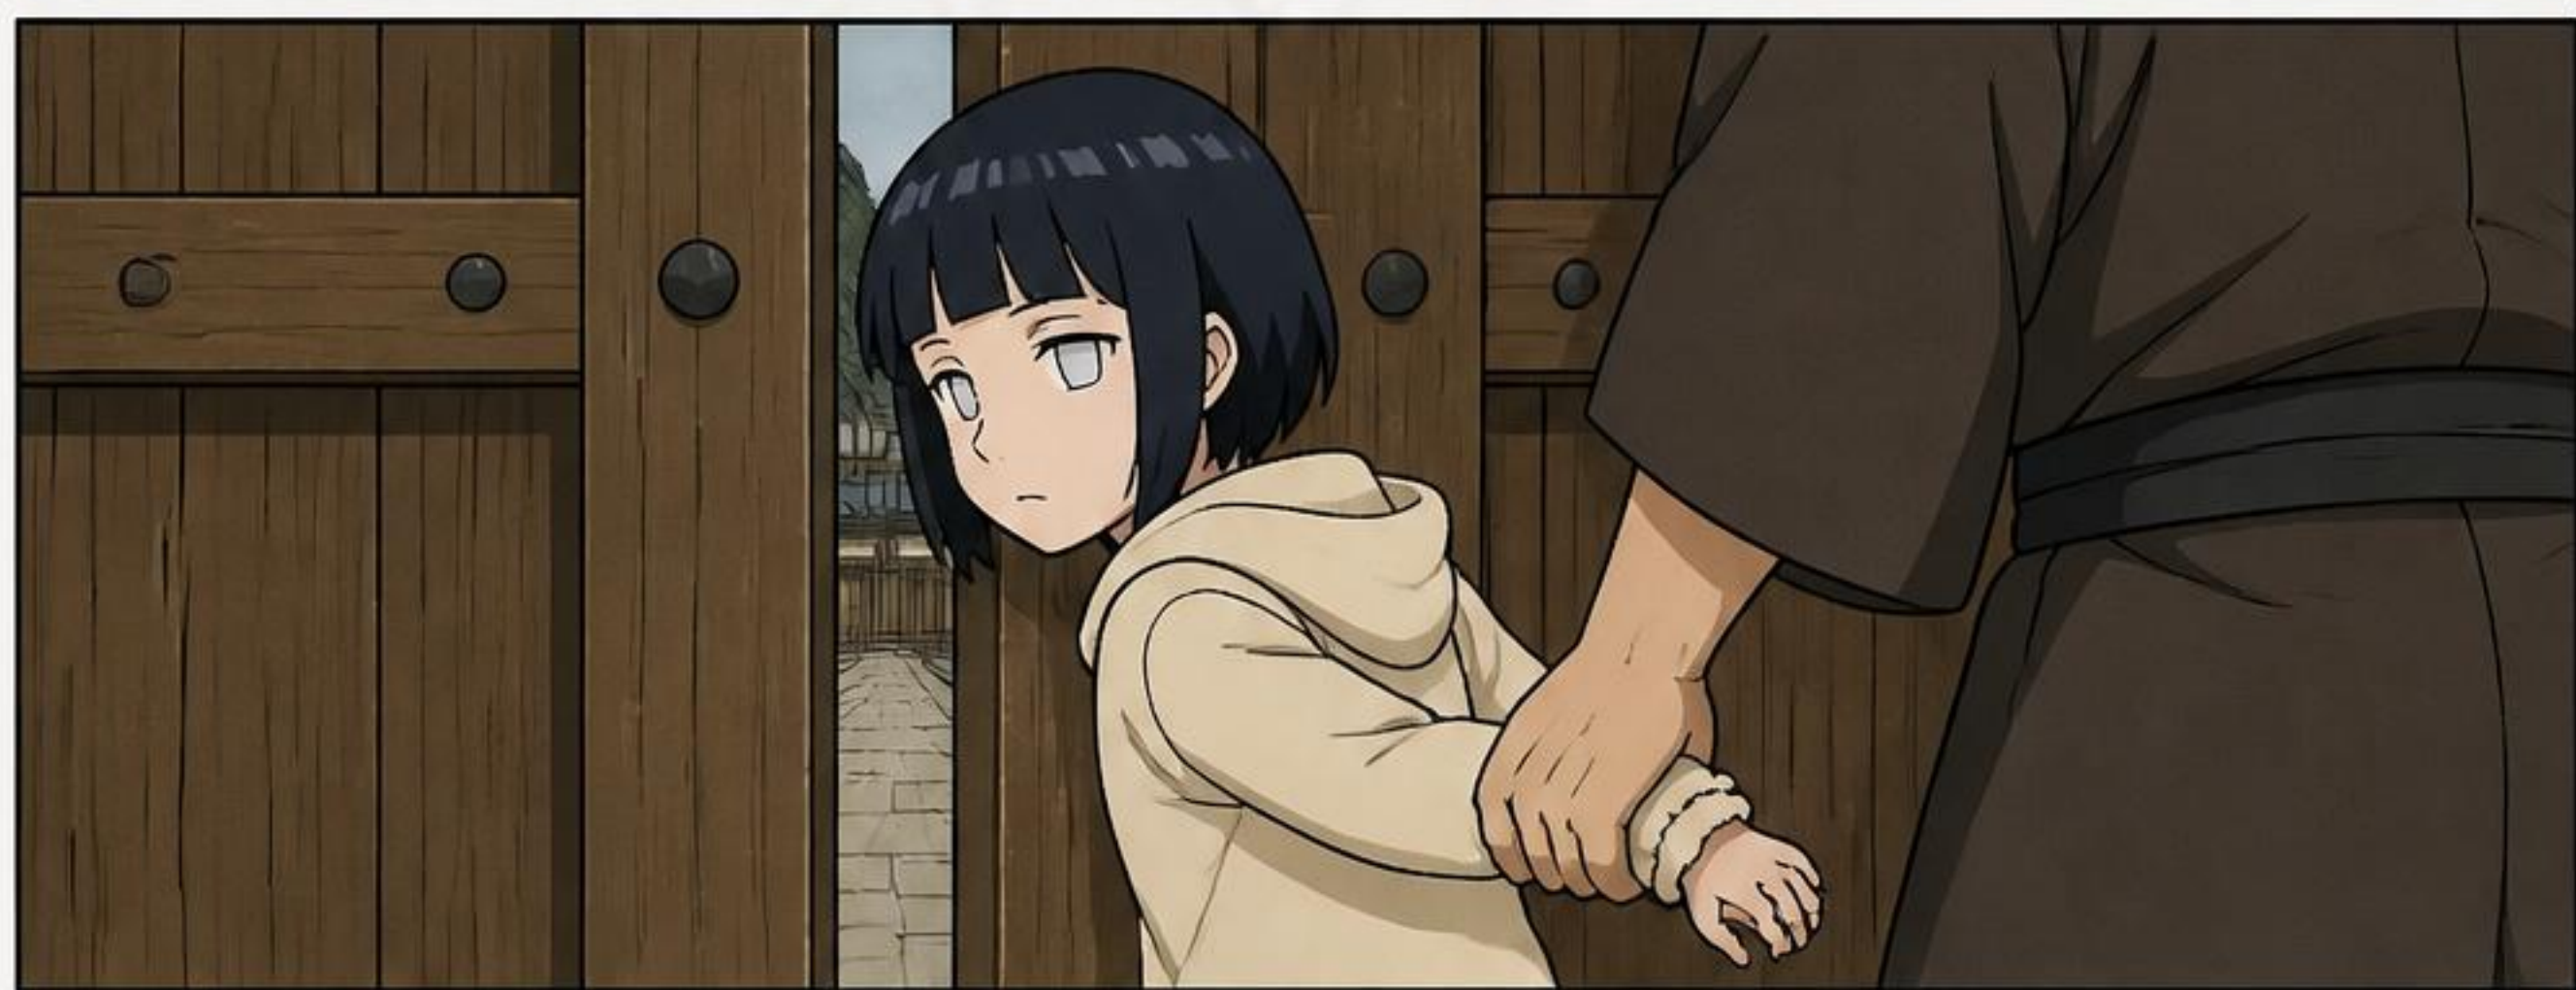

She's never said one word to anyone. That's just pathetic.

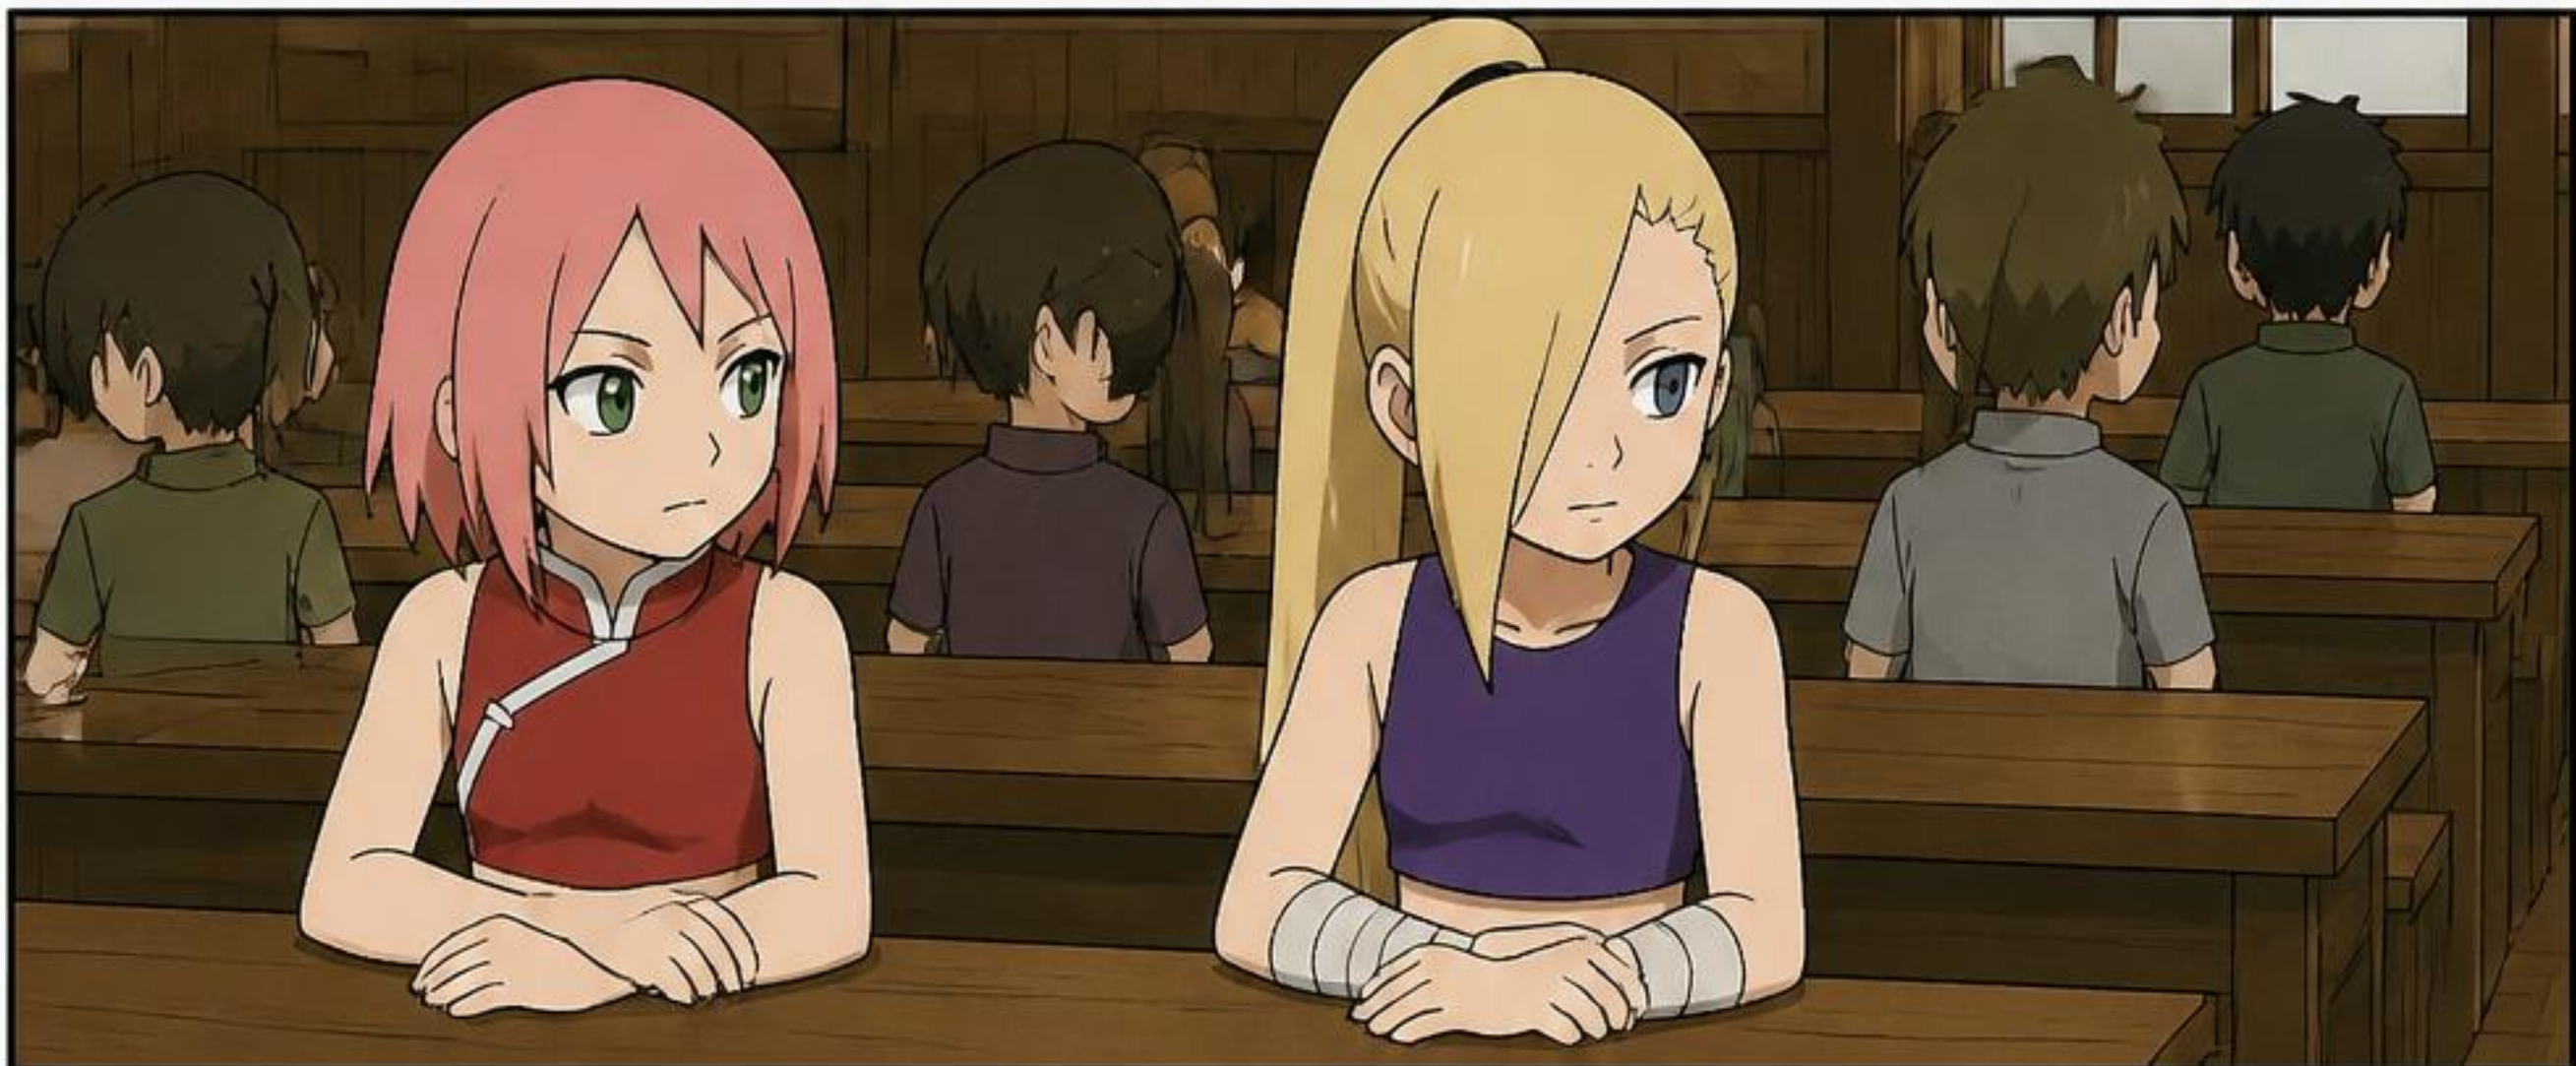

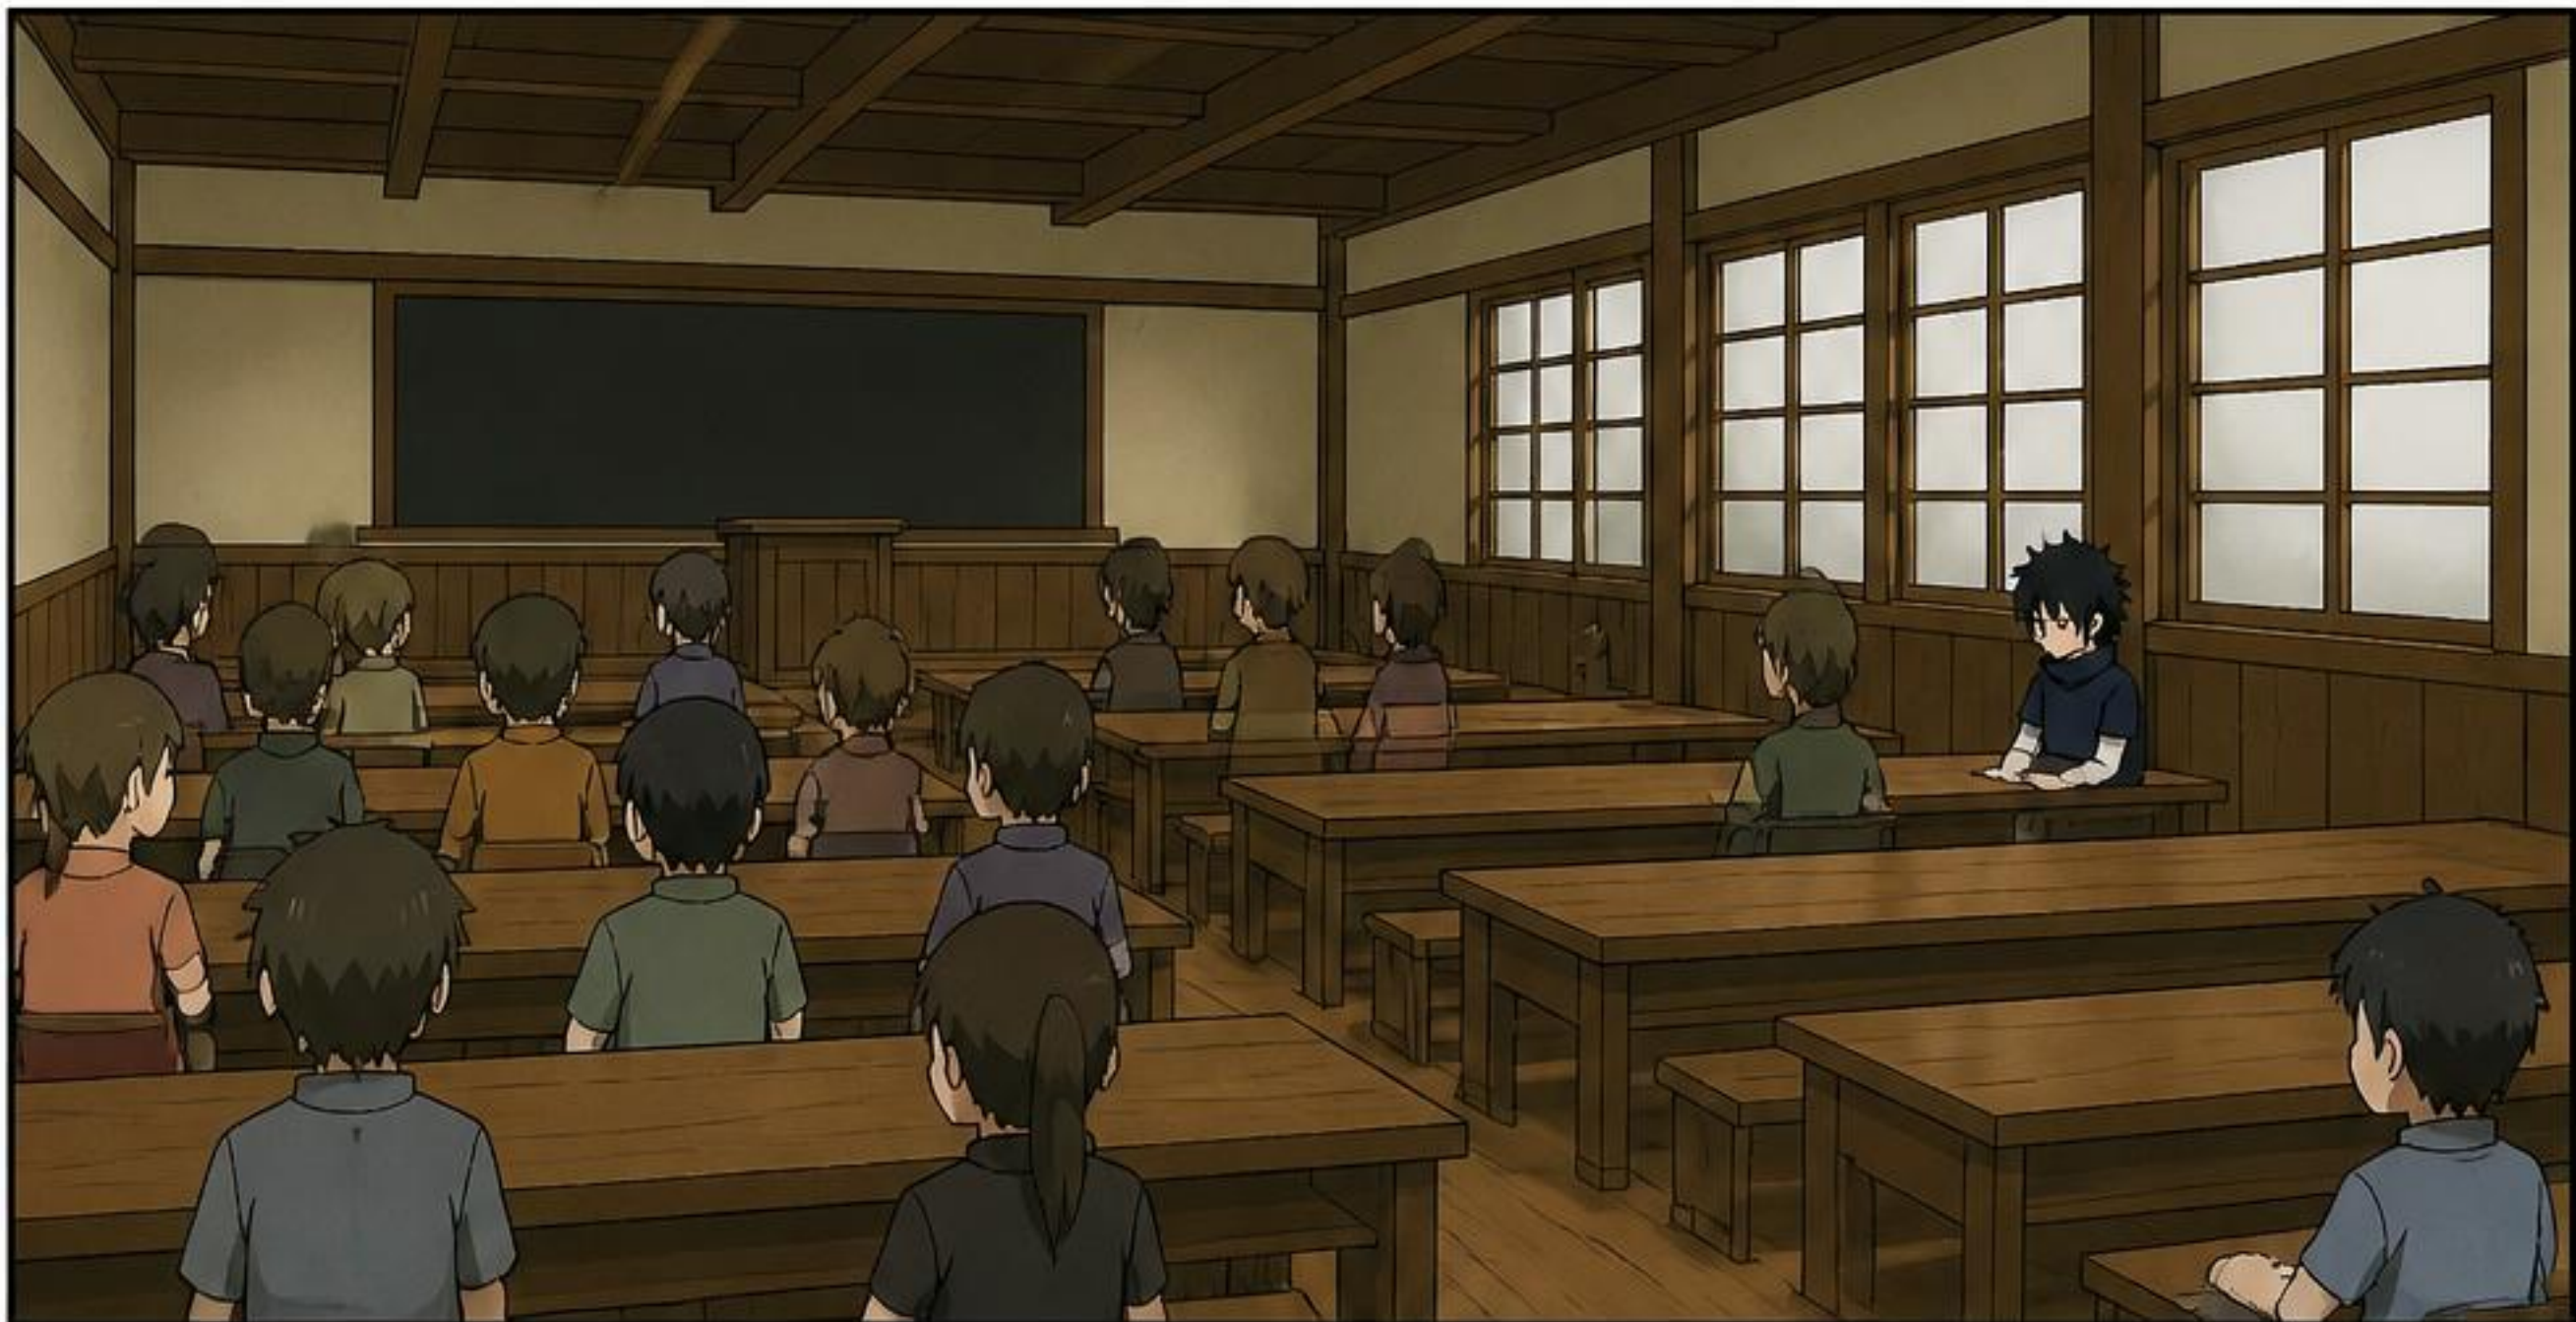

A wide shot of a traditional Japanese classroom with wooden desks and benches. A boy with brown spiky hair and a red target-like mark on his cheek is whispering to Naruto Uzumaki, who has his back to the viewer. In the background, another student is seated at a desk near a window.

They say he found them himself. His whole family.

A close-up of Naruto Uzumaki's face. He is wearing his orange jumpsuit and blue headband with goggles. He has a thoughtful or slightly sad expression on his face.

At least he had them
for a while.

Grandfather.
Do you
know about
the Uchiha
massacre?

Yes.

Those
traitors
got what they deserved.

Every
one of them.

You
catch
on fast.

The village is
in lockdown.
Nobody is counting
children this week.

...Who
is that?

This is Zetsu.

My spy.
My
creation.

I have been watching you
since you
were six.

The clone will take your place
at the academy. It will not know that it is a clone.

For the next year
you will not go back to Konoha.